TOUCHED HIGH
TENSION WIRE

William T. Hartzell, of this Place, Thrown from Thirty Foot Pole in Greencastle and Badly Hurt. Recovery Expected.

William T. Hartzell, son of Jere Hartzell of near town, came in contact with a high tension trolley wire in Greencastle on Thursday afternoon sustaining a severe electrical shock and being thrown to the ground, a distance of thirty feet. It was feared at first that the accident might result seriously but his recovery is now confidently expected.

Mr. Hartzell has been in the employ of the American Union Telephone Company for some time and was transferred several months ago to Chambersburg. Thursday afternoon about three o'clock he was working in Greencastle on a pole which supported both the telephone wires and those of the Chambersburg, Greencastle and Waynesboro electric railway.

Unfortunately Mr. Hartzell's left arm touched the high tension trolley wire and he was thrown to the ground.
He was quickly picked up and taken on a trolley to Chambersburg where he was met by Dr. Greenwalt in the Chambersburg Hospital ambulance and taken to that institution. Examination showed that Mr. Hartzell was suffering greatly from shock, that his head and hip were somewhat bruised and that he sustained other contusions to his body. In a telephone interview today Dr. Greenwalt stated that Mr.
Hartzell's recovery was probable.

Mr. Hartzell is twenty two years of age and is unmarried. His large circle of friends in Gettysburg will regret to learn of his misfortune and will hope for his early and complete recovery.

LAST DAY OF
QUARANTINE

Hundred Day Dog Quarantine Comes to an End at Midnight. Canines to Go without Muzzles without Fear of Capture.

Today is the wind-up of the hundred day dog quarantine imposed by the State Livestock Sanitary Board on February 11 and after midnight all the canines in Gettysburg can lay aside their muzzles and feel safe in taking strolls on the streets of town without running the risk of losing their lives or causing their owners to part with $13.00.

Dr. M. Moriarty, local representative of the State Board, stated to a Times representative that he had sent in his report covering the quarantine and that it showed 46 dogs to have been killed by officers and ten by their owners, that six were shipped out of the state and that twelve owners were prosecuted. Dr. Moriarty also reported that ten dogs had been placed under a special quarantine because they had come in contact with the rabid animal on February 4 and it was deemed best to have them tied.
These dogs can also run loose and without muzzles.

Who shall pay the expenses of the quarantine is now a matter for conjecture. The borough has been at considerable expense in employing an officer and it is argued by some that, as the quarantine was imposed by the State, it is up to the State to pay the expenses of the quarantine.

Whether or not a bill will be rendered is a matter for the Town Council to decide.

GETTING READY FOR SUMMER

Cottagers at Pen Mar are getting ready for the good old summer time.
Several have moved in, several are housecleaning in order to move in at an early date, and several have made improvements. Concessionaries on the park are also giving evidence of their belief that the reign of Jack Frost is over.

The boards are down at the main pavilion. Mounds in front of it have been removed and others sodded. The Libby Crystal Maze has been completed, painted and artistically lettered.
Harry Criley's bowling alley is ready for business.

New Dust Layer.

Vice Consul W. Washington Brunswick furnishes the following information concerning experiments made in Chemnitz with a German anti-dust sprinkler:

During the last summer extensive experiments were made with "anti-staub" to prevent dusty roads in Chemnitz. The material was bought by the city from potash works at Aschersleben and cost $23.18 per metric ton of 22,046 pounds. The anti-staub is sprinkled over the road by means of the ordinary street sprinkling cart. After carefully cleaning the street and moistening the material with water it is thus strewn when first applied, and for each square meter about one kilo (2.2 pounds per 10.8 square feet) is required. All subsequent sprinkling is done with a solution of 50 per cent water. According to the experience of the Chemnitz street cleaning department, the dust preventing effect of anti-staub lasted from twelve to twenty-four days, according to the amount of traffic and the general condition of the streets.

S. V. RESERVES
ARE DRILLING

Gettysburg Sons of Veterans Preparing for Big State Encampment at Williamsport. Local Sons Play Prominent Part.

Gettysburg Sons of Veterans are drilling frequently now in preparation for the big annual encampment at Williamsport which opens on June 19th. The local Sons compose Company B, Third Regiment and, under the command of First Lieutenant Walter H. Ziegler, will leave here on June 18 to go into camp immediately upon their arrival at the Lumber City.

The local organization is proving quite a factor in the state encampments. Several years ago in open competition the Gettysburg company won the $50.00 cup for drilling, presented by the Spanish-American War veterans. This handsome trophy is now on exhibition at the armory and is greatly prized.

Several members of the Sons of Veterans Reserves living here play a prominent part in the state organization.
William McG. Tawney is major of the first battalion of the Third Regiment. Dr. Henry Stewart is colonel and adjutant general, being chief of staff.

The encampment at Williamsport this year promises to be a large affair.
In addition to the Reserves, who make up the military part of the organization and who will be under canvas, the other members will be present in large numbers and will stop in the city. There is no competition on for this Summer's encampment so that the local Sons will not have a trophy to bring home.

ment in Leidy's peach orchard in

ALMOST BLEED TO DEATH

James Slusser, a young man of Huntington township, narrowly escaped bleeding to death recently.

He made a trip to the office of a Carlisle dentist to have several teeth removed. After the work was done his mouth bled profusely but the dentist told him that it would cease in a short time. He returned home but the blood continued to flow all that night in spite of all that the family could do. In the morning the young man fainted from loss of blood and at first the family thought that he was dead, but after applying restoratives he recovered consciousness. The fainting caused the flow of blood to cease and in a couple of days, though very weak, he was able to be out.

A QUEER PET

Abraham Lincoln Cleaver, of near East Berlin, who is employed at the Musselman saw mill, near Jack's Mountain, has at his home a large rattlesnake which he captured on the mountain.

The snake is alive and measures almost five feet in length. It has one button and nine rattlers which indicates that the reptile is about 12 years old. Mr. Cleaver captured it by pressing its head to the ground with a two pronged stick while he put a looped twine about the snake's body. He then placed it in a box. It is eating birds, small chickens, frogs, etc., and the Cleaver home in Reading township, is now the centre of attraction.

JUSTICE FOR YORK CO. MEN

Huntington Township Boy's Attention Diverted, York County Men Make Way with Shoats and Horse.

Squire Markley, of York Springs, this week dealt out justice to two young residents of York County who were accused of defrauding Crist Livingston of Huntington township.

It is alleged that one day recently James Smith, of near Franklinton and a man by the name of Harland of Dillsburg went to the residence of William Livingston in Huntington township and wanted to trade horses with his son, Crist. This, according to the young man's story, he refused to do. The two visitors then asked whether he would sell some of the shoats that were running around in the yard. He replied that his father would sell five of them for $20. After a short consultation, it is said, Harland told the boy to catch the hogs and they would take them at that price. The shoats were placed in a couple of sacks. Just then the Livingston's cow ran down the road and the young man started after her. When he came back, it is alleged, Harland and Smith had decamped with the hogs as well as his horse leaving their horse in exchange.

Mr. Livingston went to York Springs and made information and Constable Starry served the warrants.

At the hearing before Squire Mark-ley the case was settled by the defendants paying $25 for the hogs, bringing back the horse and paying the costs, amounting to $14.30.

COMBINATION PROPOSED

Bondholders and stockholders of the American Silk company, of York, are asked to consent to a new plan of reorganization which plan contemplates, it is said, the combining of the interests of the American Silk Company, the York Silk Company and the Monarch Silk Company, and forming a new organization under a new name, to be backed by the Windsor Trust Company of New York City.

It is said that the plan formulated several months ago, was rejected at a meeting held in New York City; but hope is entertained that ere long a reorganization will actually take place and put these important concerns on a sound and prosperous footing.

It is stated that the mills controlled by the concern are doing about as well at present as fifty per cent of the silk mills of the country, and it is believed that by the time the silk season reopens in the autumn everything will be adjusted.

EARTH ESCAPES THE TAIL
Scientists Figuring Has Been Knocked Into a Cocked Hat—Say Tail Has Curved More Than They Anticipated.
INJURED MEN ARE KILLED?
Calls Hospitals "Human Slaughter Houses," and Says Dead Men Are Considered Less Expensive Than Cripples.

New York, May 29.—Comet, comet, who's got the comet? was the game that had the astronomical puzzle solvers sweeping the skies by night and wondering by day during the past twenty-four hours. There was every reason to believe that we had been swished by the tail or that we had not been swished, that the tail was lagging into a wide curve or that it had tied itself securely around the comet's head, that the tail had been shed and dissipated, or that it was growing longer every minute, that it was in the eastern sky or on the western horizon, and that there was or wasn't any such thing at all.

Got Astronomers Guessing.
The truth of the matter is that Mr. Halley's wanderer has got the astronomers wondering just where they get off. They had it all figured out that we were passing through the tail on Wednesday night. There couldn't have been any numerical error in their reckoning, they say, because they have a system of checks that precludes mistakes. So we all got ourselves braced up to the point of standing the mighty frisking without a murmur, and at the appointed time every one looked at every one else and thought he would just as soon do this all day. And then they flash it on us that the worst hasn't really happened at all and that perhaps it won't happen.

What knocked the figuring into a cocked hat was the appearance of that tail just before dawn Thursday over in the eastern sky, when they all supposed it was dipping well down in the western sky. And when they realized that the logarithm tables had been turned on them they were non-committal for awhile, and then they began increased curves and things like that. Just at sunset last evening Professor Harold Jacoby led another solemn procession out to the park wall on Riverside drive at the foot of Seventy-fourth street and watched for symptoms for upwards of an hour and a half. Jupiter came out according to schedule a few degrees on the right of the moon, instead of the left as it was the night before, and there were a few plumes of smoke rising into the western horizon from the Jersey shore, and the after-dinner comet hunters were there with binoculars and opera glasses and monoculars, but not a ray of hope or luminous tail showed in the sky.

"If the tail is really 100 degrees long, as those who observed it say," Professor Jacoby declared, "we ought to see it way up in the sky to the west even some time after the sun has set." This was at or about 7:30, more than a quarter of an hour after sunset. Not a wisp of unusual light appeared. The astronomer kept up the vigil until it was too dark to see anything but the arc of light on the corner, and he then decided to call off the watch.

Tail Has Curved.
"The most reasonable explanation of the way the comet has acted," said he, "seems to be that the tail has curved more than we anticipated. In that event it might easily miss the earth entirely. Perhaps we have already passed through the tail, or perhaps the experience has been denied us altogether."
"Do you think the tail has been dropped?" he was asked.
"It's quite conceivable," was the answer. "We have records of many telescopic comets losing their tails, and perhaps this one has. But I think we shall pick it up over there in the west, pointing away from the sun as we have supposed."

SAW THE "COMET" AND DIED Colored Woman Scared to Death by Supposed Heavenly Visitor.
Society Hill, S. C., May 29.—Arising at 4 o'clock in the morning, to see the "comet," as she told her husband, Besie Saunders, colored, living near this place, went into the yard, saw what she thought was the comet, and fell to the ground, dying in a few minutes. The colored folk of this section held all-night prayer meetings, fearing the consequences of the proximity of the earth and the comet.

Goes Insane Over Comet.
Hackensack, N. J., May 29.—Miss Kate Van Ness, aged forty years, of Carlton Hill, was taken to the Morris Plains Insane asylum by Constable Harry Dawson, of Hackensack. The unfortunate woman was a victim of nervous collapse following the comet agitation. All the way to Morris Plains she continually said she would follow the comet, no matter where it went.

AMERICAN MARINES LAND AT BLUEFIELDS Battle Between Government and Rebels Imminent.

Washington, May 29.—A conflict at Bluefields between the government and the Estrada forces is imminent, according to advices received by the navy department from Commander Gilmer.
He says the forces of the Estrada faction are only three miles from Bluefields, having occupied their last line of defense and that an engagement may be expected at any time.
He reports having launched a hundred men to protect American lives and property.
The commander of the Venus, he reports, has delivered to him a bag of mail which was taken from the Dictator, an American chartered ship, that flew the Norwegian flag.
The Venus, Madrid's warship, has disappeared from Bluefields harbor without attempting a bombardment of the town.
Her destination is unknown.

THIEF GETS $32,024

Money Shipped by Pennsylvania Railroad Paymaster Stolen.
Oil City, Pa., May 29.—Three packages of money containing $32,024.24 were stolen from the Pennsylvania station here while John J. Truby, station agent, was loading baggage upon a Buffalo bound train.
The money was being shipped by the Adams Express company to Philadelphia.

The Pennsylvania railroad pay car arrived in Oil City and turned over to the day station agent the money packages, which were receipted for in the name of the Adams Express company.
The money was consigned to the treasurer's office of the Pennsylvania railroad in Philadelphia.

The packages proved to be too bulky for storage in the small station safe, so Agent Truby placed them under a sack behind the ticket counter, covering them carefully. There was no one about at the time.
When a Buffalo bound Pennsylvania train pulled into the station and Truby stepped to the platform, the office door closed behind him. The door is self locking.

While about 200 feet from the station office Truby saw by the light of the platform lamp that the office door was not closed.
Hurrying back, he ran into his office and discovered that the money packages were missing.
Shouting loudly, he attracted the attention of five policemen, who were within a block. A hurried search of the train and vicinity was made, with no result.

5000 See Boy Hanged.
Whitesboro, Ky., May 29.—Floyd Frazier, a young white boy, was hanged in the presence of 5000 persons gathered from all parts of the mountain country. This was the first hanging in Letcher county, and will probably be the last in Kentucky, since electrocution has been legalized by the legislature. Frazier murdered Mrs. Ellen Fannery, a poor widow, in May, 1907, mutilating her body and covering it with bones.

The Weather.
Forecast for this section: Partly cloudy today; tomorrow, unsettled; light southerly winds.

White clover not only makes a most excellent pasture grass and source of food supply for bees at blossom time, but the superintendent of one western road—the O. R. and N.—is making tests of it with considerable success as a means of preventing the washing of its cuts along the Columbia river. The clover roots make a fibrous and compact mass, while there is sufficient moisture from soil and air to insure its vigorous growth.

Free Sample Aids Old Men
The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the onset of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.
It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly for not only the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, eating and similar annoyances. It is first as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative will only make matters worse, but a gentle and something mild will do the work just as well.
After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell free of charge.
This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Wisler's of Syracuse, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in their house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.
Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

EDWARD LAID TO REST AT WINDSOR

Eight Kings Follow Body In Funeral.

LONDON IS THROGGED.

Thousands Line Route of Solemn Procession.

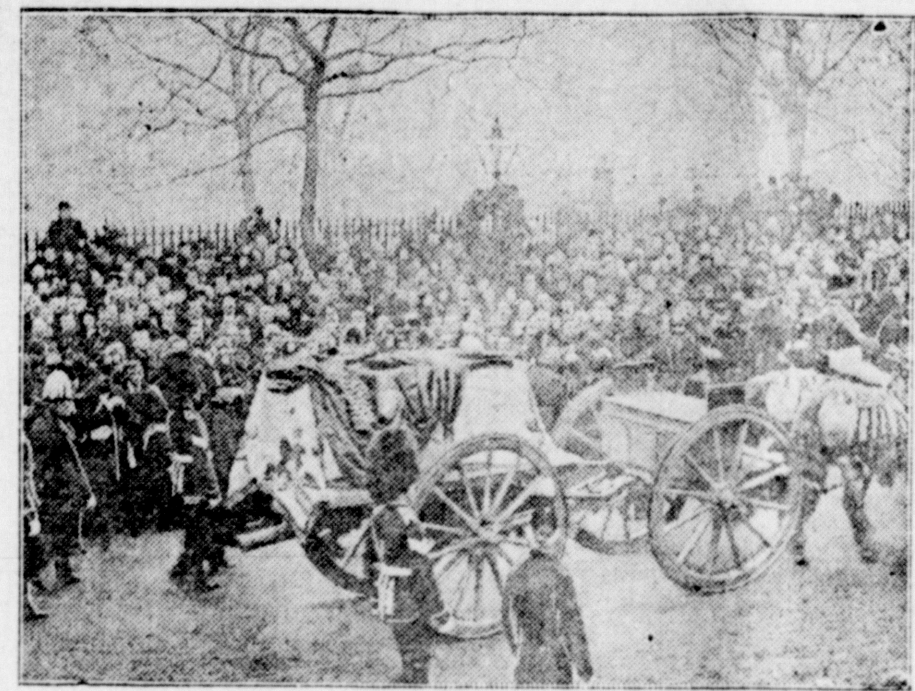

ROOSEVELT REPRESENTS U.S.

Women In Crowd Sob as Queen Mother's Carriage Passes.

London, May 20.—With bowed head and solemn countenance all England watched today the taking of the body of its deceased sovereign to its last resting place at Windsor. Edward VII. rests now near his mother, Queen Victoria, and his father who died two score years ago. Today's ceremonious, mournful pageant, that marked the conveyance of the royal remains, was unsurpassed in recent history, rivaling in some respects surpassing that which saw the laying away nine years ago of the body of the great queen.

From Westminster hall, where the body of the sovereign had lain in state three days, to Paddington station and thence through the pleasant Middlesex country to Windsor, the route of the funeral procession passed through rows of somberly clad Englishmen, attesting by their solemn demeanor the genuine sorrow they felt for the final passing of their king. It is a day of official mourning, to be sure, formally ordered by the dignitaries of the realm, but it is also a day of genuine, heartfelt sorrow among the populace. In that respect it resembles more the February day of nine years ago when the last scene in the long drama of the sovereign's memory. It was the touching final tribute of the nation to the ruler who numbered Jew and gentile, Catholic and Protestant, among his personal friends. In virtually every church in the United Kingdom the services were held. The mourning of the nation is manifest not alone in the bands of crape that drape the sleeves of the people and in the solemn drapery of their houses, but also in their hearts. The funeral procession in London was imposing and impressive in its size and solemnity. No less than seven ruling monarchs, besides King George, followed the bier of Britain's king, and other men, great, but uncrowned, shared with them the respectful attention of the populace. Much of the attention was centered upon Theodore Roosevelt, special ambassador from the United States.

The majestic figure of Emperor William of Germany, showing in his stern face the tokens of recent and deep provinces, many of whom had stood for hours waiting for the procession. Shrewd proprietors of windows and places of vantage on the route had not permitted their public grief to interfere with their private gain, and seats from which the procession could be viewed commanded good prices. For some of them as much as 20 guineas had been paid, it was said.

Following the kings and princes on horseback came their female relatives in closed carriages. In the leading carriage was the bereaved queen mother with her unmarried daughter, Princess Victoria. The sight of the widowed queen's carriage, moving slowly in the procession, aroused the keenest sympathies of the loyal, silent crowd, and the silence was broken many times by the sobbing of the more emotional women members of the throng. The heart of England went out to Alexandra today, and it is reported that she has expressed her sense of the gratitude for the many signs of deep sympathy which she has received.

Great Military Ceremony.
The funeral was an imposing military ceremony, carried out with the strictest regard for all the minute details of military rule and tradition. The earl marshal of England, his grace the Duke of Norfolk, was theoretically in charge, in accordance with the prerogative that invests him with command over all occasions of solemnity or splendor affecting the royal house, but the actual arrangements were put in the hands of the military authorities, with the duke's approval and advice. Troops lined the route of the procession, paying due honors to the body of the late commander in chief of the forces as it passed. Detachments of soldiers and sailors, thousands in number, accompanied the body from Westminster hall to Paddington station, and a guard of honor watched the oak coffin, made from the wood of splendid Windsor trees, before and after its deposition on board the funeral train, draped in mourning, on which the royalties and other high dignitaries also took passage for Windsor. Throughout the mourning draperies one note of compliance with the wishes of the dead king was manifest. He detested deep black mourning of the usual sort, and in accordance with his wishes it was relieved today with a note of violet.

EMPEROR WILLIAM, KING HAARON, KING ALBERT.

Last Services at Windsor.
Before the taking of the body from Westminster hall for removal to Windsor services were held in the hall, attended by the royalties and high dignitaries of the realm. The funeral services in St. George's chapel, the final resting place of the remains before their interment, were longer. The chapel is too small to accommodate all who attended the body from London to Westminster, and many had to remain outside. The carved stalls of the ancient and magnificent sanctuary had been removed to give place to long timber seats.

The arrival of the funeral train at Windsor was announced by the firing of minute guns. The roadway from the railroad station to St. George's chapel was lined with soldiers, who presented arms as the body of the king passed on its gun carriage. With solemn dignity the procession moved up the road, accompanied and followed by the officials whose hereditary and personal right it is to attend at the very last honors to be paid to a deceased British sovereign. There were the kings at arms, the heralds and the pursuivants, the lords in waiting, the lord chamberlain and the lord steward and a host of others.

The last touch of mediaevalism came when Sir Alfred Scott Scott-Gatty, as Garter king of arms and therefore chief heraldic officer of Great Britain, under the earl marshal, announced in solemn, ringing tones that the last earthly scene dealing with "his most excellent majesty Edward VII. by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas king, defender of the faith, emperor of India," was closed.

ing corn would lessen the damage to the young trees from grasshoppers in case they were numerous. In the first year many follow the practice of having the young tree take the place of a hill of corn, while others allow no corn to grow in any of the four adjoining hill spaces. Of course the only condition under which corn would be permissible in a young orchard would be that of repeated and frequent cultivations.

Where it is not desired to grow an intensive crop like strawberries in the young orchard beans or corn makes an excellent substitute where soil and climatic conditions are favorable. The tillage of these crops gives the soil that stirring which is most beneficial for the growing trees, while neither pulls largely on the soil fertility. In sections where the summer sun is very hot and a shade is needed for the trees corn would be preferable to beans, while the presence of the growing corn would lessen the damage to the young trees from grasshoppers in case they were numerous. In the first year many follow the practice of having the young tree take the place of a hill of corn, while others allow no corn to grow in any of the four adjoining hill spaces. Of course the only condition under which corn would be permissible in a young orchard would be that of repeated and frequent cultivations.
